Indiana University Medical Center 1981-1985

By Nancy Croker.

August 21, 1981 — Orientation Day,

Union Building, IUPUI: "Do I really want to be a doctor? Am I smart enough? Can I stand four more years, dissect a human body, be on call and still have time for a cold beer, a tennis game and a nap?"

Vague memories float through my mind of eating donuts with the people who were alphabetically close to you, listening to the awed and respected Dean Beering lecture on carnitine-deficiency (whatever that was!) and telling us we were now Student-Physicians. Upper classman gave tours of good 'ole Med-Sci and then told us the real truth about how to study, Hurricane Harris, Biochem tests, and most importantly, where the best Happy Hours complete with free dinners could be found.

August 24, 1981 — Classes start, Med Sci, Room 326: Stately, distinguished, and serious Dr. Bauer (remember the HLA — Dr.

Bauer Creates Apathy) tells us that physicians are not allowed to have bad days. You must be just as capable of doing an appendectomy on Thursday at 3:00 AM as on Monday afternoon.

305 of us started in the Fall of '81 and we lost very few that year as we progressed thru the Krebs Cycle, viral replication, Dr. Schmedtje and the monkey uvula, Head and neck anatomy, and the genius of Dr. Felton with the Edinger-Westphall Nucleus, muscle spindles and proprioception. Yes, we survived, we met the challenge, and we were ready for summer!

Along with factual knowledge from lectures and textbooks, we faced the dilemmas of Medical Ethics, the emotions of watching others suffer and die or make miraculous recoveries. We learned much from each other, for our backgrounds were varied: including engineers, social workers, pharmacists, nurses, theology majors, teachers, mothers, and musicians. The personalities were as diverse as the backgrounds — The philosophy of P=MD was very prevalent and there were those who moved into the lounge of Med-Sci or the Butler Library for the duration. Intramural volleyball, basketball, and softball brought out the natural athletes, as well as the klutzes, but provided a great outlet for pent-up frustrations.

A growing number of our class discovered other ways of dealing with pent-up frustration, resulting in wedding bells and later, cigars became abundant as the baby boom gained momentum.

As Sophomores, those at the Indianapolis Campus discovered Emerson Hall with its dark balcony, theater seats and miniature desks. The Fall quarter provided a true challenge complete with dog labs, little glass jars with specimens that looked like Ripley's Believe it or Not, and Pharmacology tests which were lucky to have an average score of 40%. With the advent of Physical Diagnosis we saw a miraculous change in our fellow classmates as the women looked great in hose and make-up, and the guys with ties; Once a week we donned white coats, carried "The Black Bags" (or brown or maroon), and finally entered the hospital to learn the art and bedside practice of medicine.

Junior year was another world as we entered the domain of THE HOSPITAL full time. Mandatory reading included The House of God, Arrowsmith, and the Wishard map. We learned the true meaning of "scut" firsthand, ran to the lab, performed EKG's, and attempted to thread IV's into the rolling veins of 90 year old "LOL's from the NH with dehydration." The quiet beauty of summer mornings at 3:45 A.M., when you would jump out of bed to make pre-rounds for Pediatric Surgery — What a wonderful experience. Holding retractors for Dr. Madura built character as well as great arm muscles. Meal tickets at Wishard could buy dinner for six and sleeping at Sunshine Hall was just one step from the great outdoors.

There were other advantages too: perfecting ping-pong and volleyball skills with the Vets at Cold Springs VAH; Watching pit drips on a GIPO for 24 hours, and examining five sets of ears in one room at the Wishard Peds Clinic. (Cont. pg 10)

Indy

Indianapolis, during 1981-85, has been making its move to become a major city again. In the days of rail passages, Indianapolis was a doorway of the Midwest. Most trains ran through the city making it a major tourist and business attraction.

Unfortunately, the advent of air travel left Indianapolis dormant. The city became known as "Nap Town" and "India-no-place." The 500 Mile Race was its only claim to fame.

Recently, with much support from private industry, the city has been rejuvenated. The IUPUI Natatorium and track & field stadium are world-class: the site of the '82 National Sports Festival, the '84 Olympic Trials, and the '87 Pan-American Games. It is a frequent event that brings Indy to national sports attention as it vies for the title "Amateur Sports Capital of the World."

Downtown has been rejuvenated with the restoration of the Circle Theater, the continued strength of the Indiana Repertory Theater, the construction of state-of-the-art hotels, and the planning of an enclosed downtown mall.

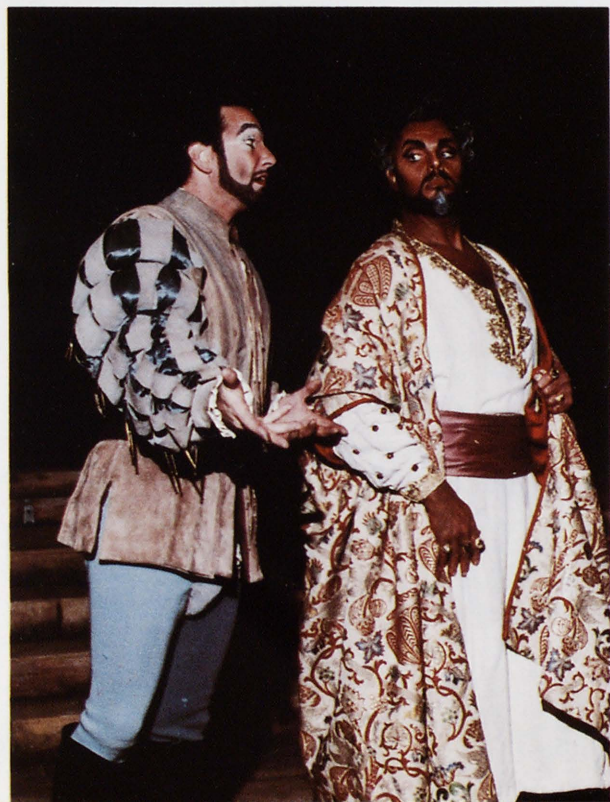

In 1984, the Hoosier Dome was completed just in time for the Baltimore Colts to relocate in Indy.

Indianapolis

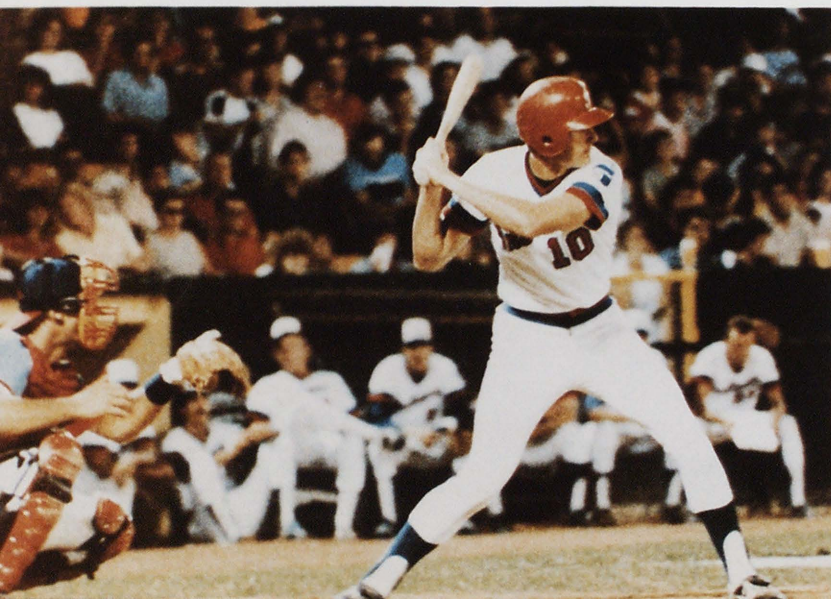

Even though the Colts struggled in their first season here, capacity crowds of over 60,000 turned out for every game.

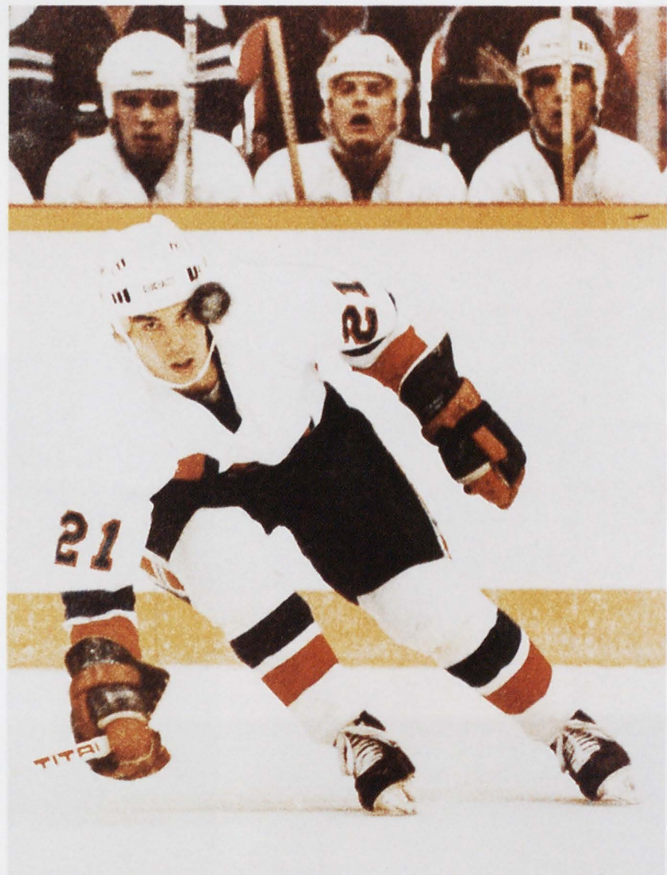

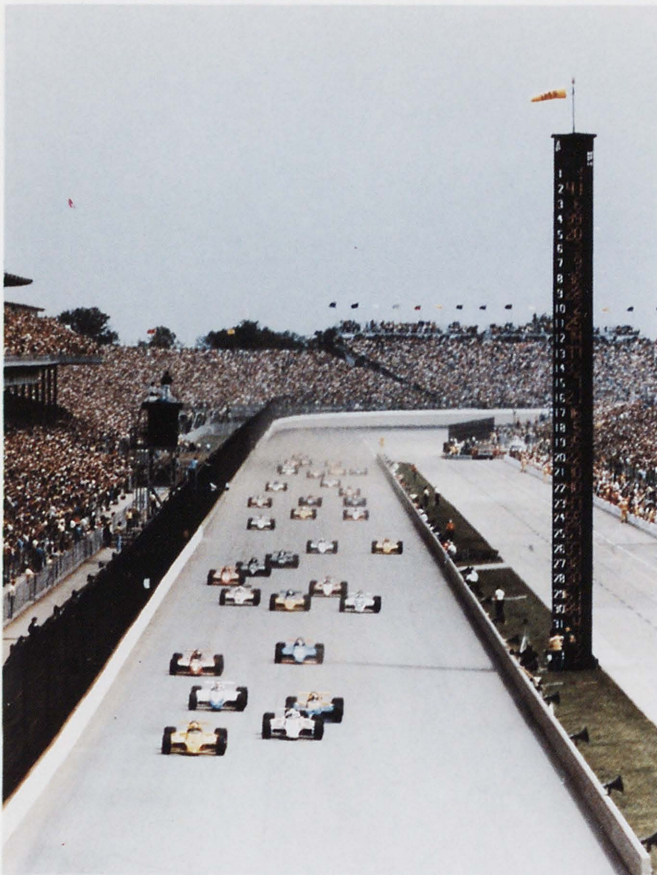

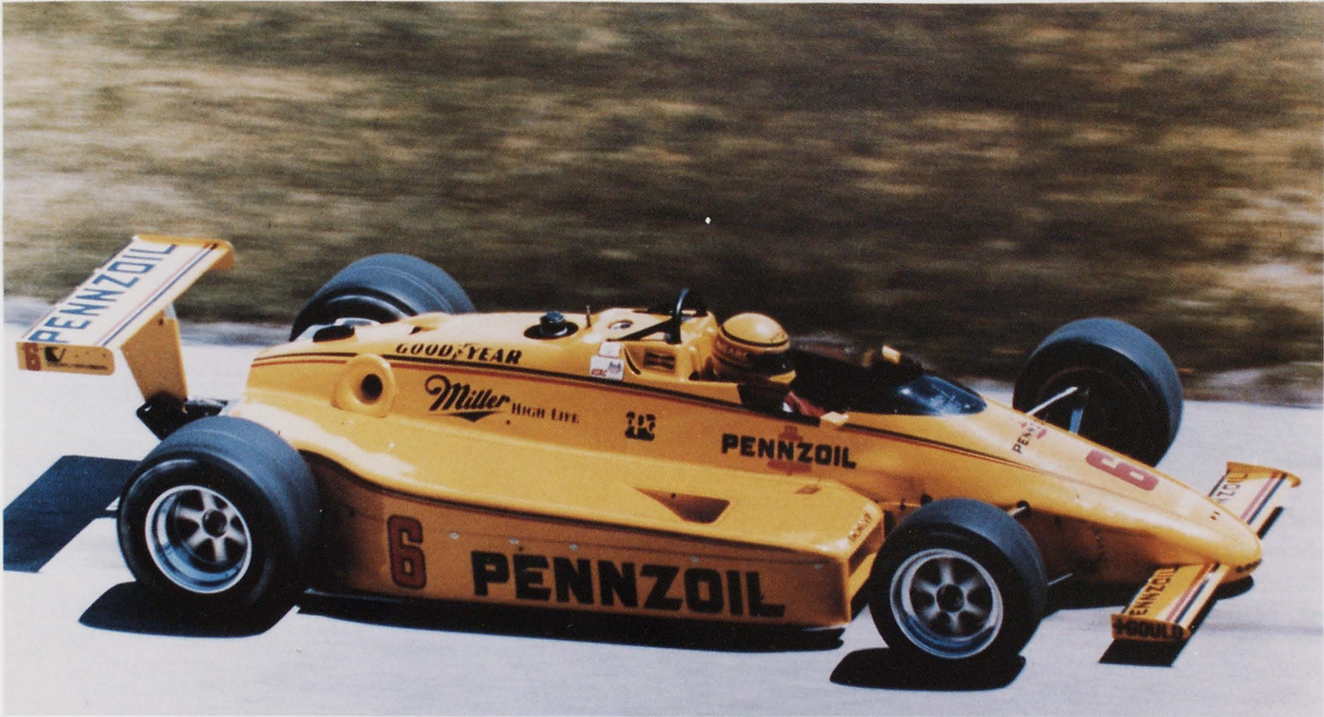

New owners Mel & Herb Simon have sparked a dramatic increase in attendance and interest in the Indiana Pacers after the team nearly folded at the end of the 1983 season. The Checkers brought home two consecutive Adam's Cups, while supplying exciting hockey action in the cozy confines of the State Fair Coliseum.

The city is unique with its "circle" design centered around the Circle Monument. This is the scene of frequent social events such as the Strawberry Festival, Circlefest, Summerfest, fireworks, and others. Every Christmas the monument is draped in lights to create the "World's Largest Christmas Tree", the fountain becomes a skating rink, and yuletide spirit predominates. The Christmas of 1984 was perhaps the most outstanding as the circle was converted into a giant carousel.

Other attractions within the city offer a variety of diversions. The Indianapolis Museum of Art, CTS Repertory Theater, Crackers Comedy Club, the Indianapolis Symphony, and Triple A baseball.

The growth of the Circle City along with the increasing prosperity and civic pride of Indianapolis has created an attractive and well-rounded environment at the Indiana University Medical Center.

I.U.M.C. 81-85

The regional students were a welcome addition to our core group at Indianapolis. We had spent two years with the same group of people, and new faces were a shot in the arm for socializing — including at least one mixed marriage of Indy-Center matrimony.

Senior year was like heaven. We could actually think for ourselves, plan our schedules, and get out of Indiana if we chose to. India, Pakistan, Kenya, England, Ireland, Alaska, and Haiti were training and mission fields for our class. The decisions of specialty, residency, and the match loomed before us, with the added uncertainties of physician-surplus, HMO's, and decreasing numbers of residency spots; but, oh the freedom of senior year!

The future? Only time will tell, yet, as we finished our four years of Medical School we could only concur with Theodore Roosevelt: Far better it is to dare mighty things, to win glorious triumphs, even though checkered by failures, than to take rank with those poor spirits who neither enjoy much nor suffer much because they live in the grey twilight that knows not victory or defeat.

We dared.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Scattered amidst all of the books and bodies, labs and lectures, conferences and call nights, has been an activity known to all as the ever popular parties and social events.

The Class of 1985 "learned" how to play hard, creating a number of new party traditions while continuing a few old ones. Happy hours soon became major social events, allowing everyone to wind down in a healthy way. Lars Kneller discovered a real "hole-in-the-wall" bar, known affectionately as the Georgetown Lounge. This lounge somehow developed into the Friday afternoon meeting place.

Although the class of 1985 will never be remembered for their party punctuality, the multiple "Better Late Than Never" parties always seemed to make up for it. Biochem tests and schedule breaks were not allowed to rain on the parade, as it soon became novelle to celebrate Halloween in November and Christmas in January.

The winter of 1982 brought the first annual skating party. Held at Cheseapeake Landing, it was a welcome change to the "generic" clubhouse party. The ice led to many strained Gluteus Maximi and sprained egos, but also plenty of laughs.

Todd Taylor, Nancy Croker, and Allison Vidimos helped the class return to normalcy with the "De Cerebration" picnic party in the spring. Like all dutiful class officers they also brought us back to reality with the "Back to the Grind" picnics. The whole class participated in the party activities during Freshman year helping the class to become a close group of friends.

Sophomore Year brought new stressors, specifically the dreaded National Boards Part One. In good faith, the class officers, which now included Maria Poor, brought us the "Status-Post Boards" party, a true necessity. The careful observer could note the "camps" that formed. While most of the class swore "we'd study next time," The "gunners" debated the answers all night. The party in June of 1983 at the Brown Derby was the first time regional students met the center people. It also was the first time many spoke civil to anyone after a month of being study hermits.

Carlos Woodward and Ross Waltemath practice hockey without a puck during the first skating party.

The class also had social outings: Jim Nevin-Gattle arranged dinner at The House of Hunan followed by The Nutcracker Suite. Scott Pittman threw a Christmas party at his father's farm, featuring carolling around the piano. Brad Pohlman played the piano as Ron Powel portrayed Santa Claus.

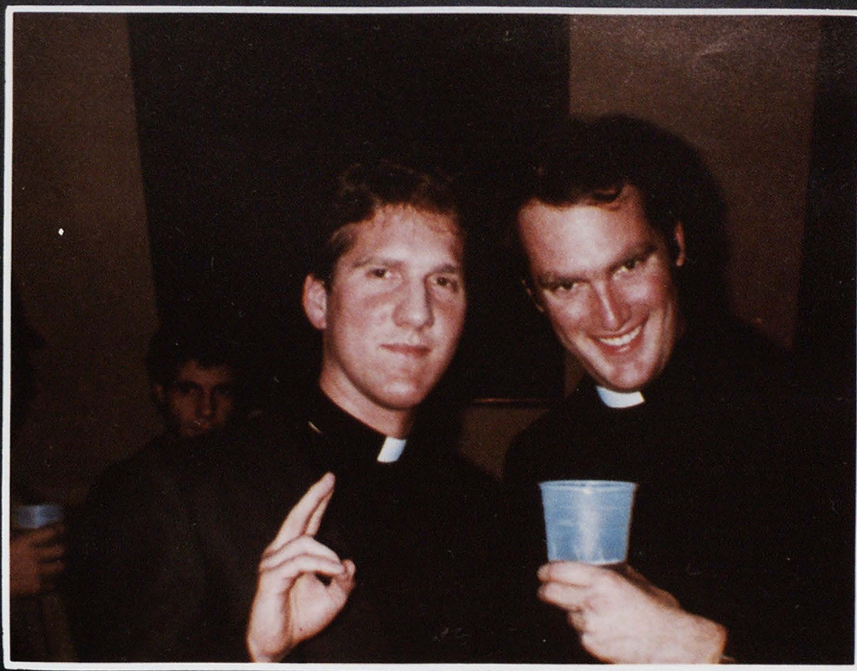

The Halloween parties urged many to come as their alter-ego. Dave Grigg came as "Funnelman", and Denny Maier came as Kevin Altman. Priests were abundant, Brian Clarke transformed into a scrub nurse, and, speaking of transformed, Mike Weichmann was a very believable Incredible Hulk. A six-pack of Budweiser strolled in as Martha Twaddle directed traffic, dressed as a stop light. The truly tasteless decided to be timely and became packages of laced Tylenol. The Halloween parties became tradition, and in 1983 and 1984 they were held in the "haunted" Schull-Rauch House.

The Class of 1985 took control of the Annual Christmas Dances. Held at the Convention Center in 1981 and 1982, it moved to the Murat Shrine in 1983 and 1984. These were "The Social Event of the Year" for the Medical Center. The dance featured top name groups: Clarion, The Late Show and Dr. Bop.

The Class of 1985 lived up to the theory of "He who works hard must by necessity play hard." The parties not only served as release, but also brought the class together. Close friendships, some marriages, and fond memories can all be attributed to these social events.

Everyone had to find ways to cope with the pressures and tension of Medical school. To make things worse, waistlines bulged as classes progressed. To solve both problems, sports became the obvious answer.

The class joined the IUPUI intramural sports leagues. Medical School teams were among the best on campus. Students led the way in basketball, volleyball, and softball. Intramurals created opportunities for all.

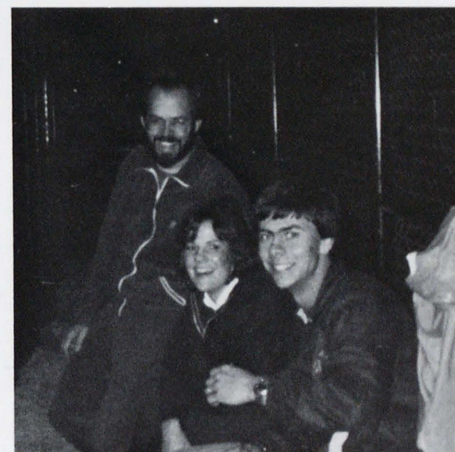

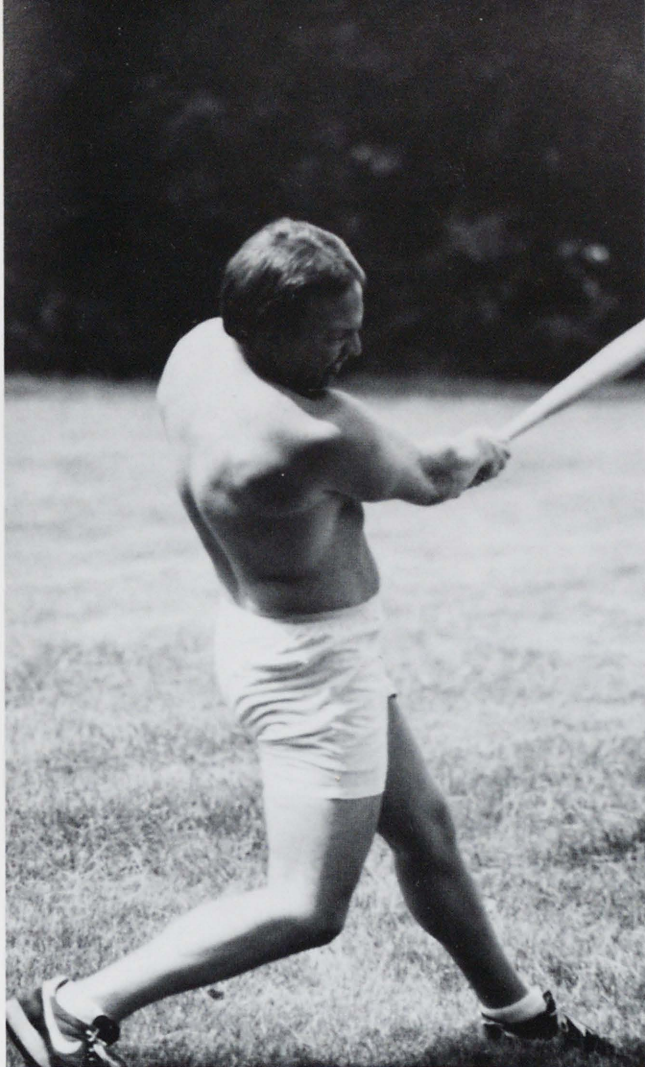

During the summer of 1982, a summer league softball team formed. The team, sponsored by Whittaker General Medical, provided enjoyable Wednesday nights behind The Roost lounge.

Racketball turned out to be an escape for many. Sprouting enthusiasm with the construction of the Natatorium. Two racketball courts were always busy. The competitiveness of the sport took the edge off the classroom. Gus Galante, Michael Chez, Jim Nevin-Gattle, and Joe Steinmetz led the class with racketball prowess.

All in all, sports saved the sanity of many medical students.

ACADEMICS

Basic Sciences

In the beginning, there was Biochemistry and Microbiology. Freshman year began August 17, 1981 and the reality of Medical School hit fast. Class Notes were a saving grace to those at the Indy campus, but within two weeks we had a Biochem test and wondered how we got so far behind so quickly. Most of the class fell behind in Micro playing their only card November 3 — the day of the Micro final. It was hard to believe, but in less than three months we learned multiple biochemical pathways and almost every bacterial, fungal and parasitic pathogen known to man.

After a weeks rest it was back to the fast-lane as Anatomy and Histology were next to be conquered. Dr. O'Connor introduced us to our cadavers (a tense moment for all medical students). Dr. Schmedtje instructed Histology.

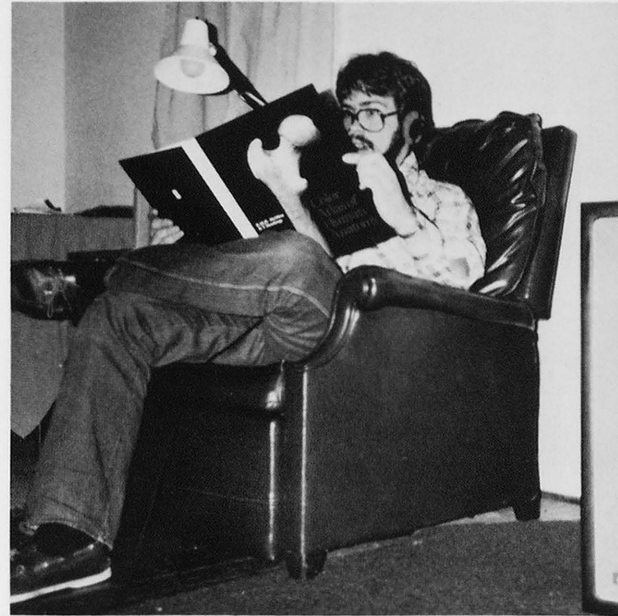

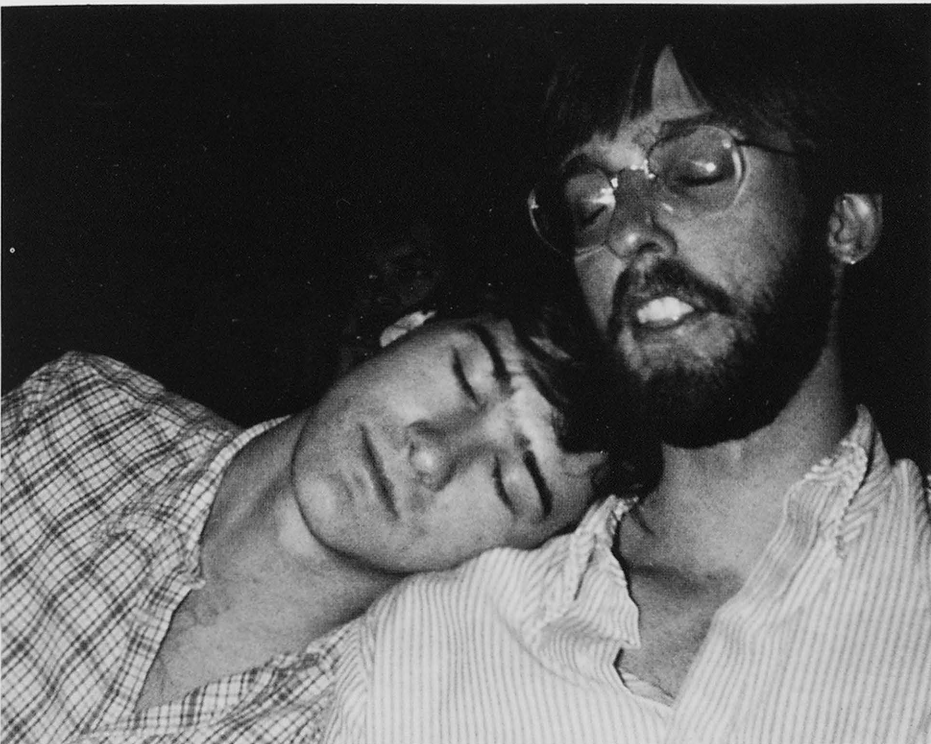

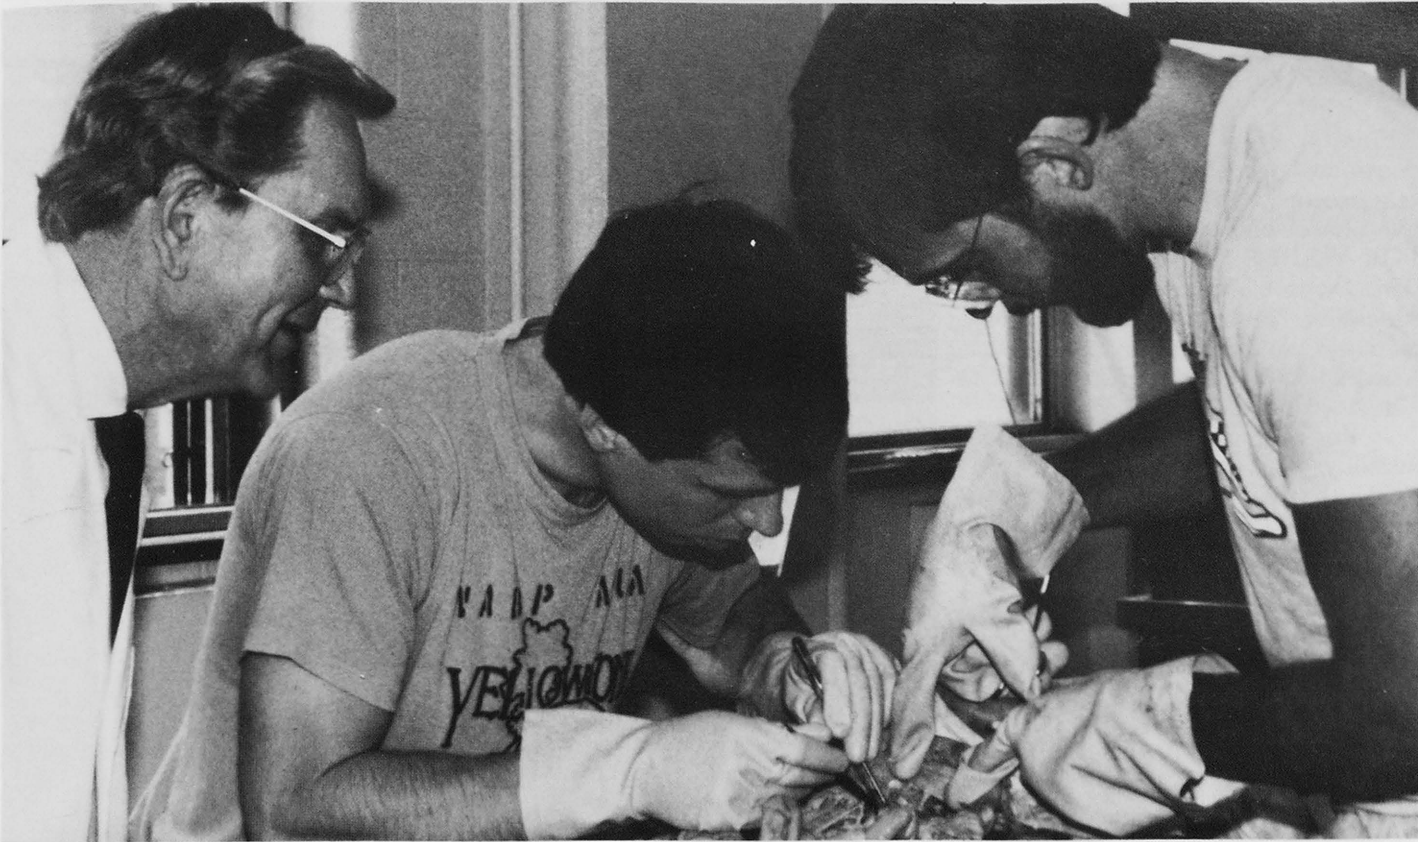

The year ended with Neurobiology, Physiology, and Emergency Medicine. Dr. Felten showed us the brain from inside out. We dreamed in sagittal sections. Physiology instructed the how and why of bodily functions.

Pharm and Path ended basic sciences the following year. We moved into the dog lab and saw physiology and pharmacology at work. We also toured the museum of glass jars and "man in the pan" to learn pathology. In just over one short year we were ready to learn MEDICINE.

The Wards

Finally, after nineteen years of classrooms, lectures and tests, Junior year rescued us from those regurgative phases and we were allowed on THE WARDS. Personality and patient rapport became a factor in our education. No more spitting out from memory alone, the junior student was expected to theorize and use judgement.

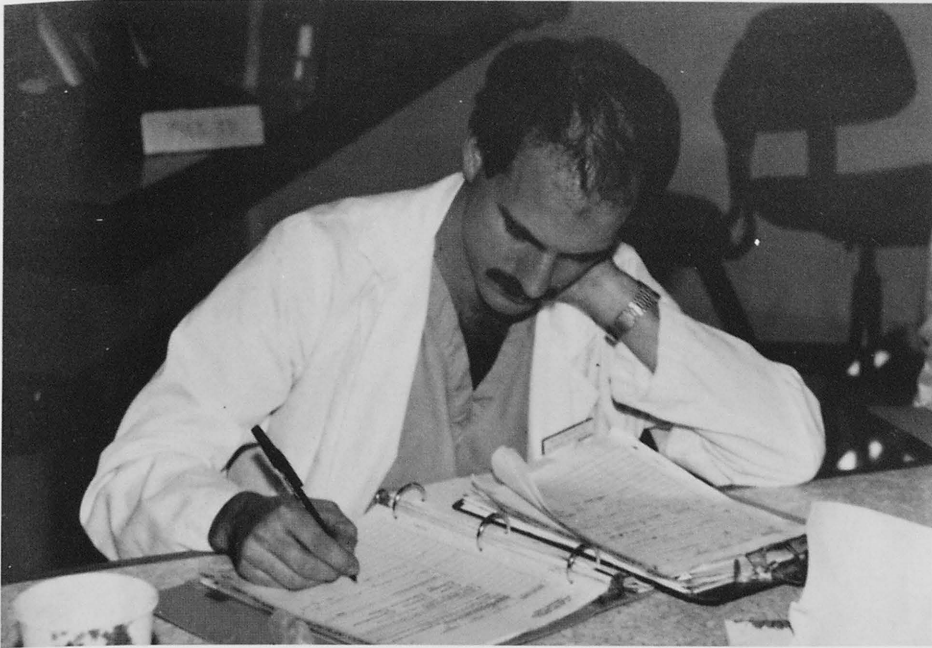

Junior year consisted of rotations in the various disciplines of medical fields. Ranging from ortho to the dreaded rotations of medicine and surgery (where sleeping and eating first became valuable commodities). Some rotations were considered vacation time — since none was allotted. Psych at the Cold Springs was good for improving your ping-pong and softball skills.

Our class begged for medicine at The Wishard, as 90% “Blue-chipped” Wishard Wards. Unfortunately 30% were the “lucky” ones.

Surgery wards were the most feared. Some people prayed for Plastics and St. V's, while others at the opposite end of the spectrum actually asked for Peds Surgery and The “A” Team.

And The O.R.

Senior year was a change. Compared to previous years we had entered the "country club" year. For many, the last year of sanity before Internship drained the humanness out of their souls.

Senior year was also a time of travel. Some traveled to Pakistan, Kenya, and Europe. While some traveled to South Bend or Carmel. Scheduling the electives took as much time as performing them. We were constantly reminded: "Anyone requesting to change schedules in less than a month will cheerfully be beaten to a pulp."

Freedom was ours, the choice of what, when and where to study belonged to the individual. Electives as consultants, dermatologists, outpatient clinicians were without call, and hence highly desirable.

Responsibility increased as the senior was considered a "Sub-Intern"; which means someone was always watching and hopefully protecting you. Now, you were really in charge of your patients — and sometimes a junior student too.

And Learning

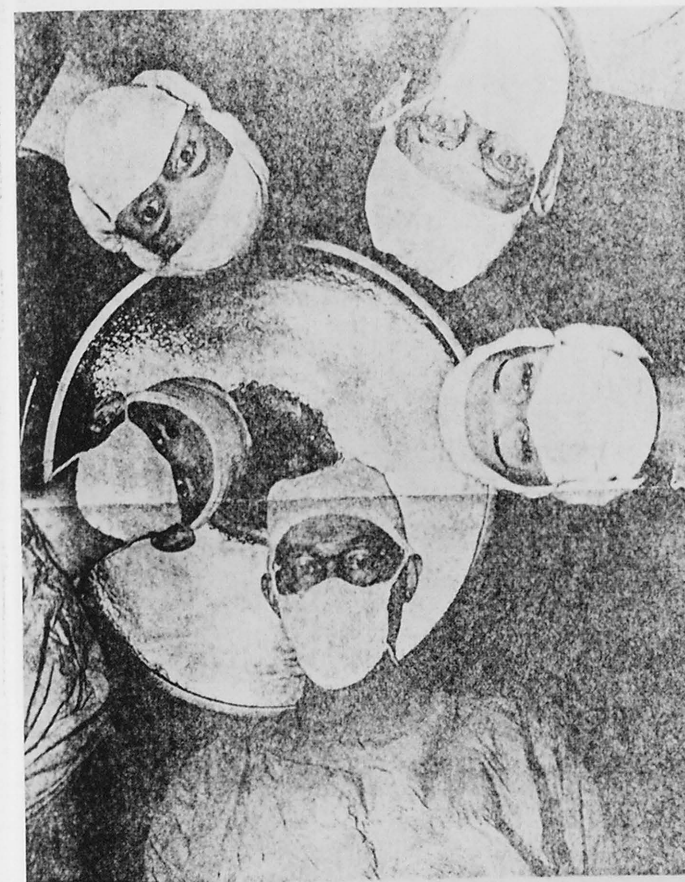

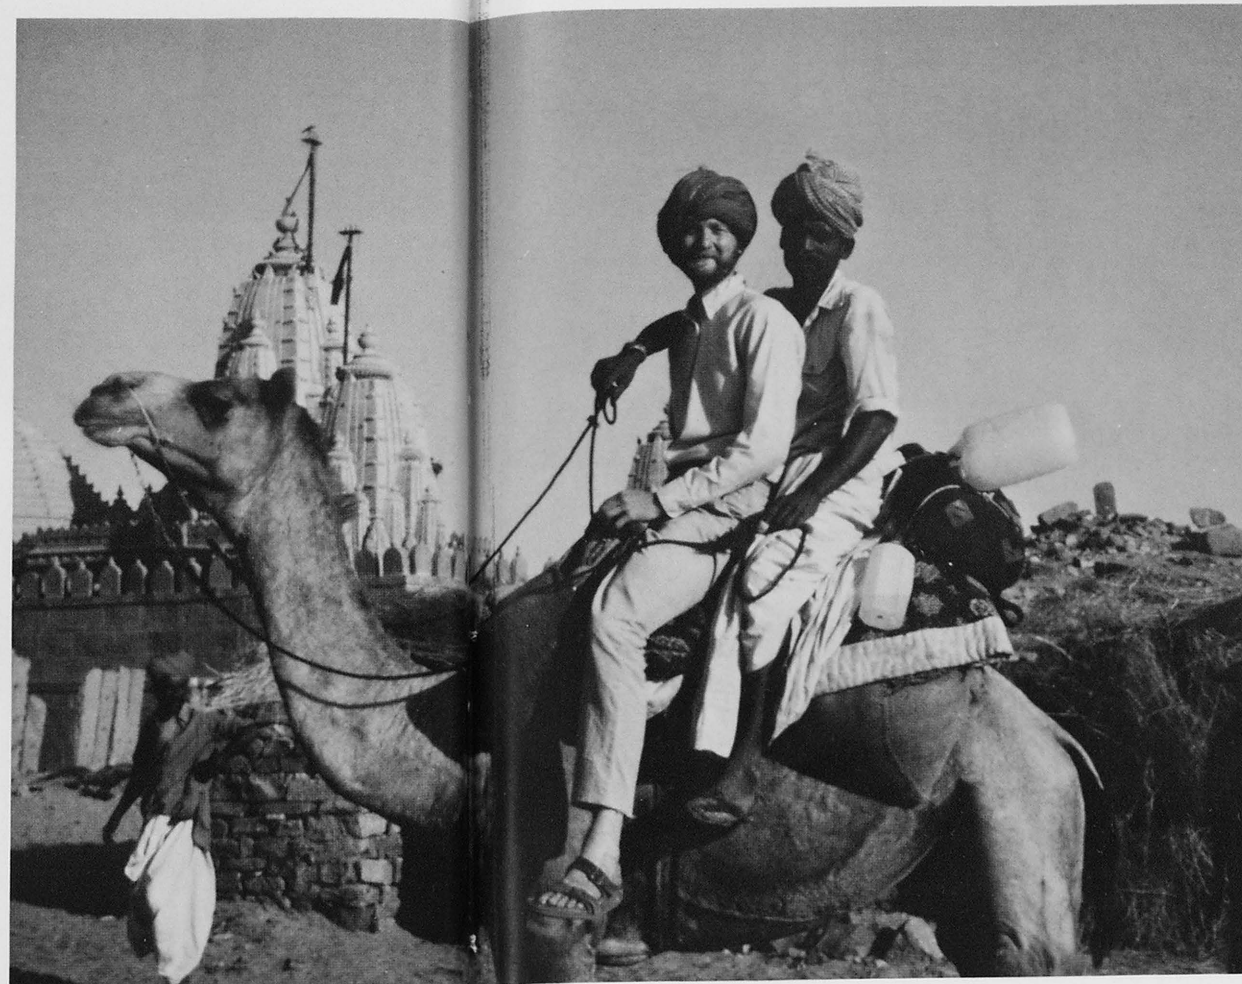

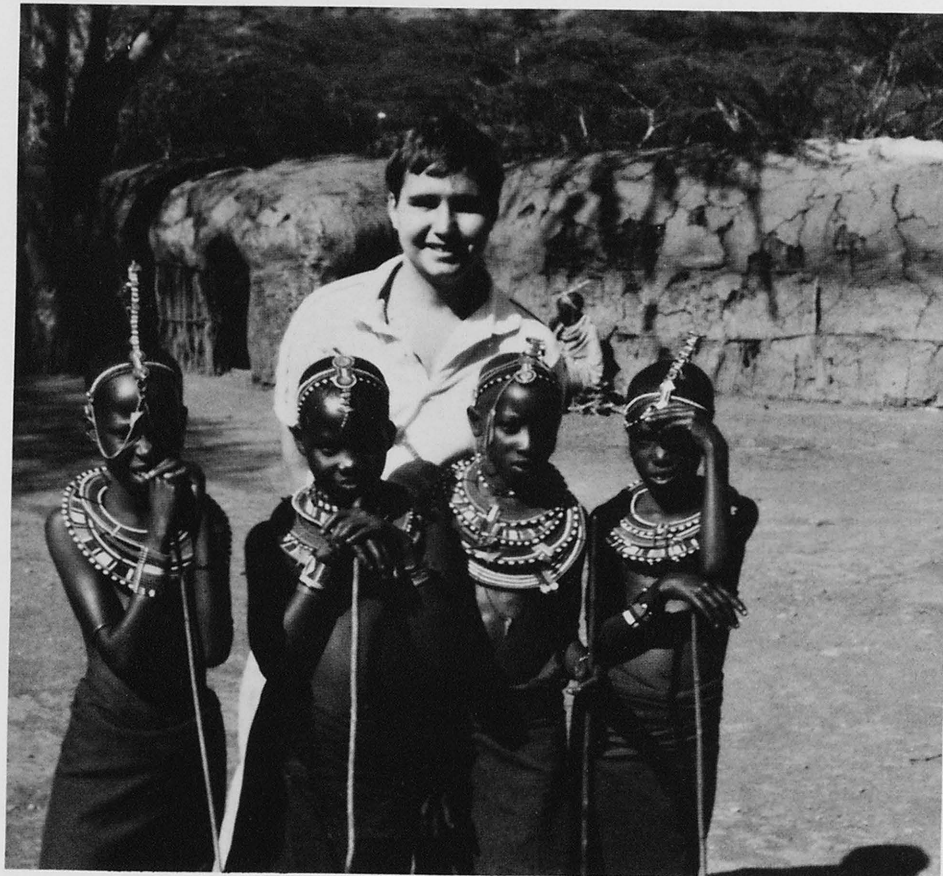

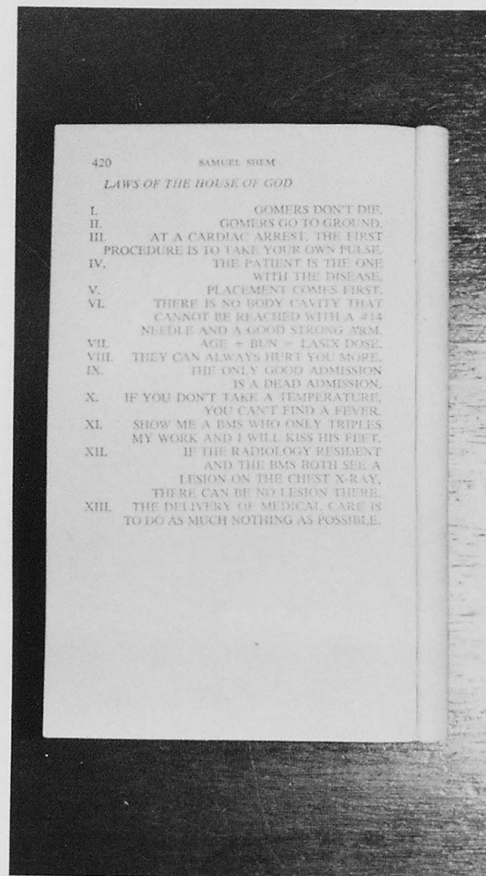

The Hospitals of IUMC were filled with interesting patients and "great cases". Indiana University, lovingly referred to as The Mecca and The White Castle, is a tertiary referral center for much of the midwest. Here, the zebra's could be found.

Wishard Memorial is the "general" community hospital. Patients are all shapes and sizes. Compliance is a real problem, but often these patients are the sickest. The blood & guts medicine is taught here.

Veteran's Hospital (The Vah Spa), is after all just another VA hospital. Much time is spent fighting the system and trying to get tests performed. The VA has walking pathology. Pulmonary, General and Vascular Surgery, and ENT are overloaded with the usual and unusual of disease states.

Perhaps the most impressive on campus is Riley Hospital for Children. Here miracles are performed daily. Walking around the wards made you praise and question God. Research and care at Riley is without equal.

It took all four years to mold the Class of '85, but the biggest lesson learned was that you never have learned enough.

Now comes Miller time.

The Last Hurrah

On May 12, 1985 the commencement of the Class of 1985 took place.

Prior to that, the class took its last opportunity to celebrate as a group. After Sunday the class would begin to disperse to various parts of the globe and many friends would part for years.

Friday May 10: The class meet for the Awards Banquet at The Adams Mark Hotel. After cocktails, dinner was served and the class and faculty toasted for their accomplishments. Dancing and partying completed the night.

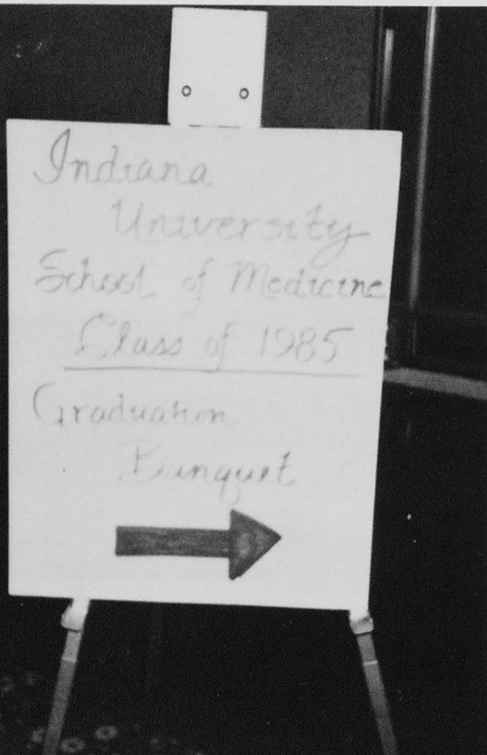

Saturday May 11: The class and families picniced at The Eagles Crest. The Afternoon was spent playing frisbee, softball, and volleyball.

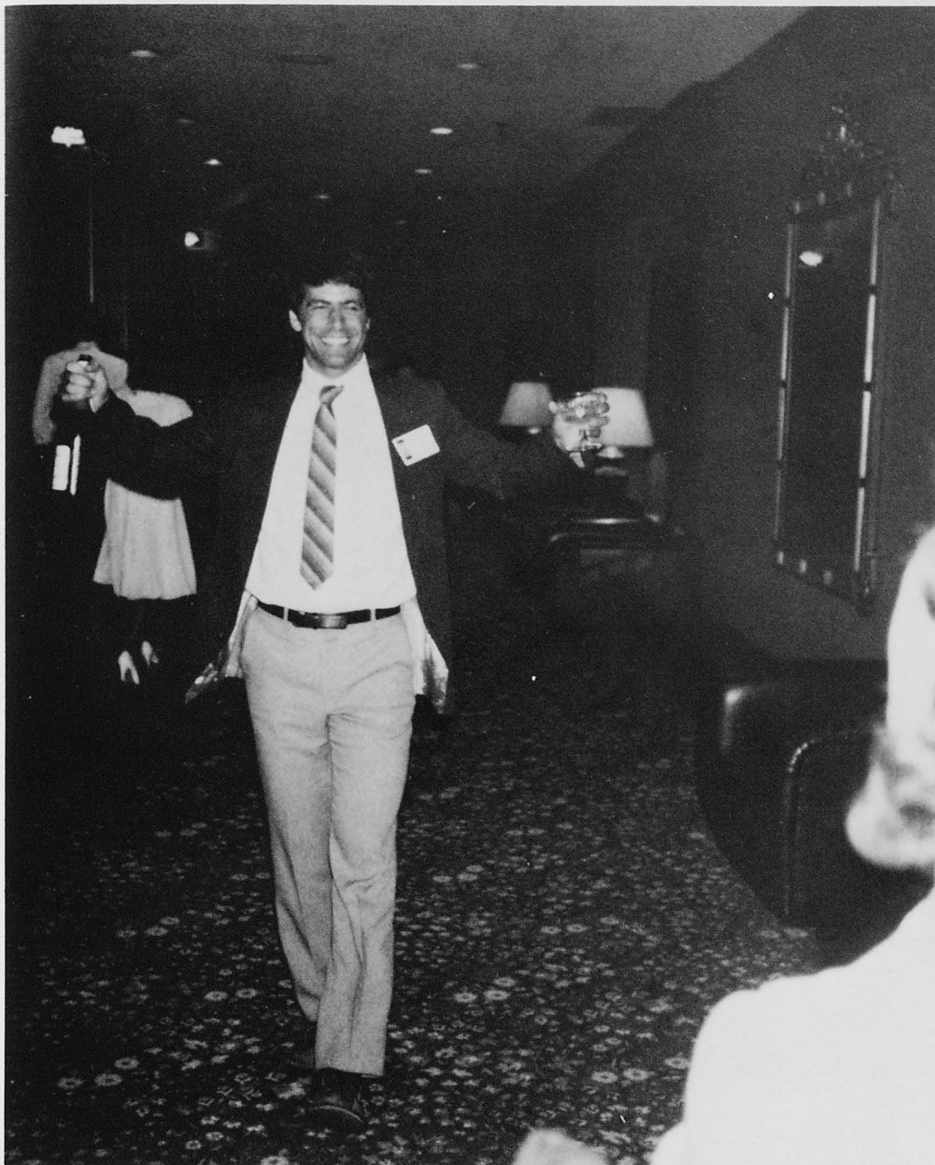

Sunday May 12: The night our mother's have been waiting for all their lives. The Class of 1985 recieved their diplomas.

These six pages are dedicated to our families; without whom this weekend might not have existed.

Right: Robert Bigler and Martha Twaddle discuss future residency programs. Rob prepares to move to Grand Rapids, Michigan and Martha to Evanston, Illinois.

May 12, 1985 Commencement

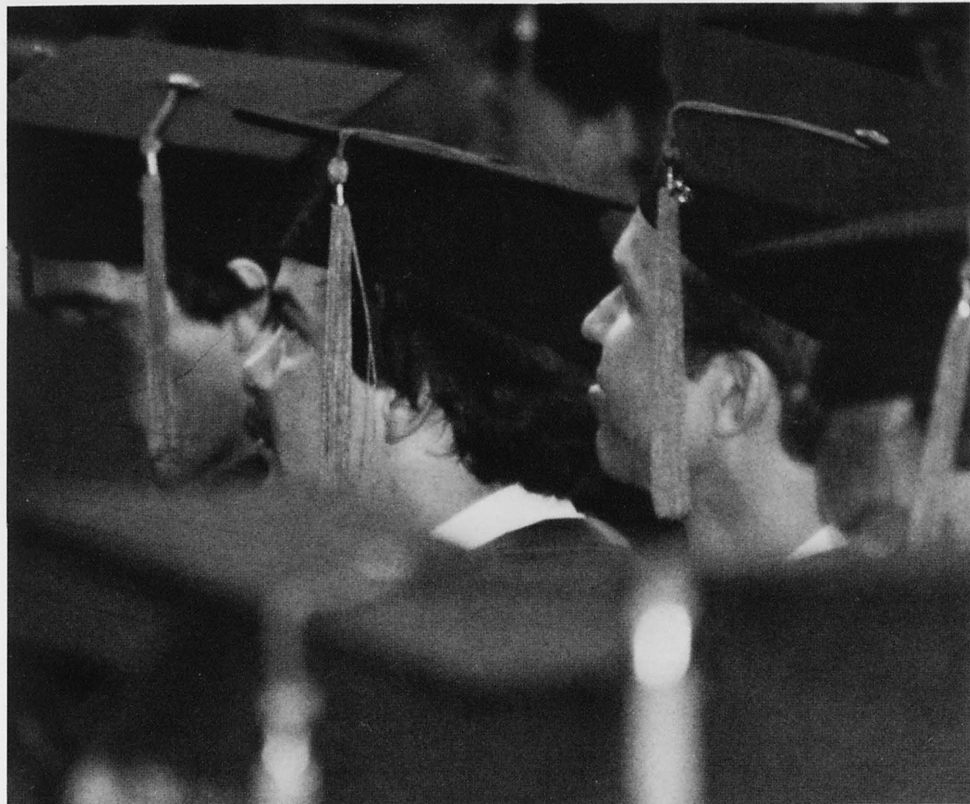

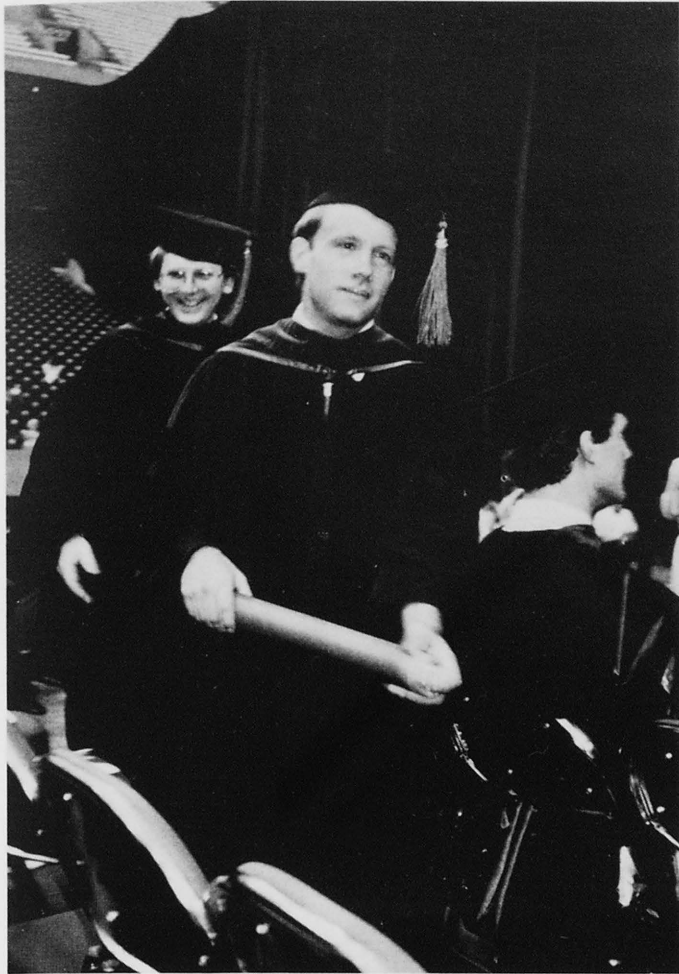

Class Of 1985/Hoosier Dome

The Class of 1985 begins their Medical careers as M.D.'s in the Hoosier Dome.

Ernie, the "K"
A man is, indeed, "a man of parts," who masters music and the medical arts — and someone said without a stutter, That he sets the "girlies" hearts a flutter! We could go on and relate the balance — Of all his many other talents — But in order to keep this poem briefer, We'll just stop and present Dr. Ernie Kiefer!

Carolyn K. Schumaker
Lynn, We have shared your dreams and you have made them come true. We're "proud". Love, Your family

We've been defending doctors since these were the state of the art.

These instruments were the best available at the turn of the century. So was our professional liability coverage for doctors. In fact, we pioneered the concept of professional protection in 1899 and have been providing this important service exclusively to doctors ever since.

You can be sure we'll always offer the most complete professional liability coverage you can carry. Plus the personal attention and claims prevention assistance you deserve.

For more information about Medical Protective coverage, contact your Medical Protective Company general agent. He's here to serve you.

As our newest colleagues, we welcome you to the profession of medicine and congratulate you on your recent achievement.

A distinguishing feature of a profession is the ability to work together for the common good of the profession and those they serve. We trust you will wish to be a part of this effort.

The Marion County Medical Society serves as your point of entry to the professional body of medicine. We extend this invitation to you to participate in our future. For membership information, call the Medical Society at 639-3406.

On behalf of your colleagues and teachers, here and nationally, we wish you continued success and offer to work with you in the future.

Imagine Medicine Without A Medical Society

Congratulations Class Of 1985

There Would Be No One

- to speak for you at the legislature
- to represent you before Congress
- to stand up to HHS for you
- to work effectively with governmental programs
- to go to court for you
- to stand firm against NHI
- to fight for you in an insurance crisis
- to represent your views to the media
- to help medically educate the public
- to up-date you on medical news/issues
- to assure quality medical education
- to answer your questions
- to help with problems of third party carriers

... but you

You and your county, state and national medical societies, together as a team, can do all of the above effectively and in your best interest. Their purpose is to work only for you, the physician, who doesn't usually have sufficient time or knowledge needed to preserve, protect and insure the progress of high-quality, independent practice of medicine in today's complicated and rapidly changing world.

Your medical society team can provide you with a liaison with government, medical-legal consultation, lobbying in your best interests, concerted political action, insurance programs, news media relations, public information/education programs, membership publications to keep you informed, continuing medical education, and many other benefits.

‘Cheers’ to the Medical Class of 1985:

Amidst all of the labs, lectures, and callnights . . . May you always remember the many good friends and good memories that you have had here; and may you continue to enjoy and share the friendship, support, and wisdom of your colleagues.

May you continue to find the strength and wisdom to be caring, responsible, and conscientious physicians as you attempt to facilitate nature’s healing processes.

May you strive to improve yourselves in the face of the rapidly changing field of medicine and health care delivery; and may you find much happiness, success, and satisfaction in your chosen profession.

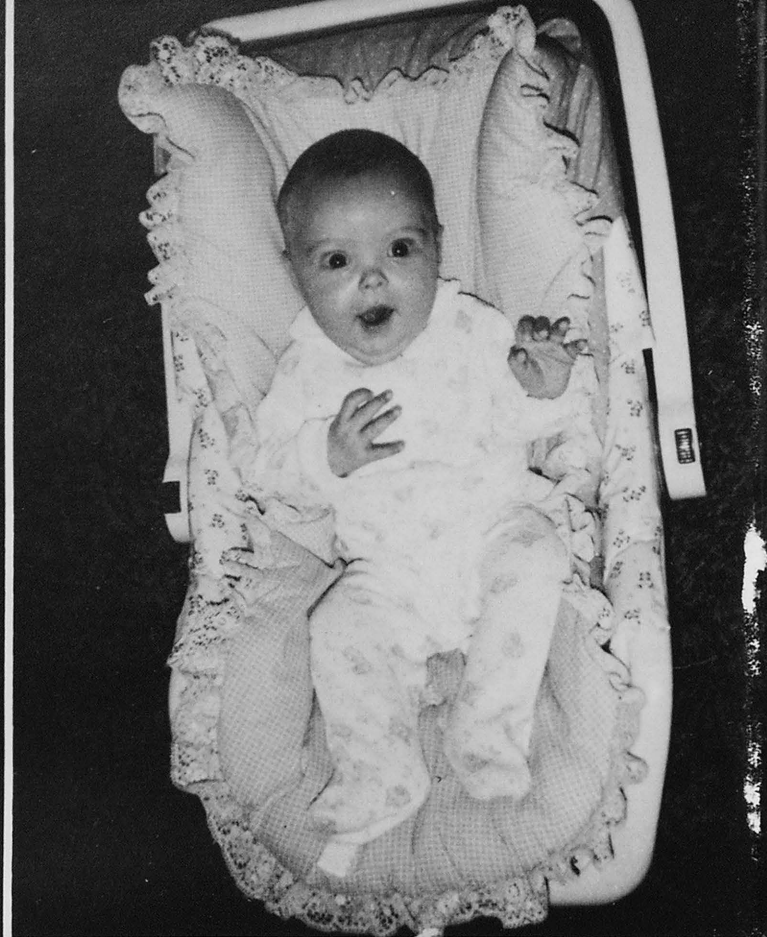

And . . . from a pharmacist — may your writing always be legible!

Thanks for a great four years.

Good luck, good health, good life to all of you

“Cheers”

This book dedicated to my wife and daughter
Molly & Whitney.
With all my love.

Colophon

A Colophon is defined by Webster: "an inscription in the back of a book giving facts about its production." We are printing one so you can understand where the money went. Besides the $12,000 poured into this, there exists a substantial investment of human hours.

It is my hope that in years to come when the dusty yearbook is pulled off the shelf, one will find it a fair and accurate assessment to the past four years.

The book is printed on 80 pound gloss enamel paper. The majority of copy is Century Schoolbook style, with body being 10 point and caption 8 point.

The cover is Josten's Craftline embossed cover. Its color is Deep Red 512, with a sundance grain and black overtones. It has a hot foil overlay of the school emblem is done with gold foil and gold metal applications. End-sheets are Parchmatte 303.

The book is published by Josten's American Yearbook Company at the Clarksville, Tenn. Branch. Dick Mauer was our yearbook representative. Dick put many hours of labor into this book to insure its quality.

The Book was created with much care and love. My wife not only tolerated my long hours but also the mess I made of our apartment. I dedicate The Caduceus to the two most important people in my life with all my love. This book is dedicated to my wife Molly and my daughter Whitney. Whitney was born May 15, 1985 and is pictured above at 4 weeks (Left) and 10 weeks (right).
